TO OUR DAHLIA FRIENDS:

We wish to thank our many customers who are so kindly helping to increase the dahlia enthusiasm. It is gratifying to serve you year after year, which assures us that Dahlias of Quality and Distinction are of increasing fame. We are more than pleased with their success throughout the country.

By careful propagation, we are in position to offer a number of the new varieties which have proved themselves worthy of a place among the high standard dahlias of today. After you have carefully considered the Special Collections and catalogue in general, we feel sure you will find it pays to buy direct from the grower, who combines the sale of cut flowers with that of roots, which tends to lessen the overhead costs, and enables us to give you a much better value.

All varieties do not bloom equally well in different sections and in various soils. Therefore, it is more a matter of selection of varieties suited to your needs. We will be pleased to recommend suitable varieties for your locality if you will kindly specify whether for cut flowers, garden effect or competitive exhibition. If you are having success with certain varieties, we would appreciate this knowledge.

For those desiring the still more recent introductions, we will gladly submit a List of Green Plants in the spring. We prefer filling orders with tubers because of the ease in handling and shipping, and generally they prove more satisfactory to those not versed in dahlia culture. However, we shall list the newer varieties in plants for those who understand them and realize that better exhibition blooms can be produced from plants than from roots.

Send for Green Plant List if interested.

To our new friends we would say it will give us great pleasure to hear from you, and we assure you of the highest possible quality of our stock, as all the dahlias used in filling orders are grown at

Dahlias of Distinction

The 1923 season brings us to a still higher standard of this most wonderful of all out-door flowers, and offers the opportunity for greater and more beautiful exhibits than ever before.

The dahlias in this catalogue have been grown by Warren W. Maytrott at Dahliadel Nurseries, where thirty-five acres of land and 13,000 square feet of floor space are devoted to the growing, shipping, and storage of Dahlias of Quality and Distinction.

Orders will be filled with strong field-grown root divisions unless an unforeseen shortage should occur, in which case we will notify you, and growing plants will be sent direct from the Nurseries. We do not substitute.

Since the beginning, we have dug out and destroyed all plants showing any signs of weakness or disease, and the improvement in the health and vitality of the stock has gone far beyond expectation. By having accomplished this and growing the stock used for filling orders, we give the following guarantee without any hesitancy, and believe that everyone growing dahlias should be assured of the health and vitality of the stock they are buying.

A New Guarantee for 1923

All dahlia roots and plants are guaranteed true to name and free from disease, Mosaic or stunts to the extent of replacement with true stock, if properly cared for.

Only the best and strongest root-divisions are used in filling orders, and the utmost care exercised. But should an error occur, we will gladly rectify it if notified as soon as error is detected. Most failures in starting plants and roots are due to improper planting or because of attacking insects. No guarantee is given that plants or roots will grow and bloom, as that depends largely on soil, climatic conditions and attention. But should a root properly planted fail to start a shoot in three weeks after planting, return it to the Nurseries direct by mail and another will be sent at once.

Terms and Delivery

Dahlia roots will be sent, carriage prepaid, C. O. D., unless cash accompanies the order; purchaser to pay C. O. D. charges. If cash accompanies the order, roots will be sent prepaid, by express or by parcel post, whichever is better, considering distance and size of order.

IMPORTANT

Every living thing has an enemy, and is susceptible to disease. The dahlia has few enemies, which are easily controlled, and it is a wonderful disease resistant. The stunted growth sometimes found in dahlias can only be controlled by digging and destroying all infected stock, but it takes concentrated effort in this roqueing for a few years to secure stock that can be guaranteed free from disease, which emphasizes the fact that the value of dahlia roots is not only in the variety but in the health and vitality stored within the tubers.

Do not plant diseased stock as allied diseases are known to have been carried by sucking insects. It is easier to destroy diseased stock than to control all of the sucking insects. All our stock is guaranteed.

The Dahliadel Nurseries are situated on East Landis Avenue, and consist of seventeen acres of the finest and newest dahlias grown, eight acres of which are irrigated—a necessity where thousands of green plants are set out regardless of weather conditions. The equipment of the plant consists of a large concrete shipping and packing building, frost and fire proof, as much of the stock could not be duplicated in case of loss. Three greenhouses are devoted to propagation work, where the roots are bedded in January and grown at a low temperature. When the shoots are of proper size the cuttings are made and layered in sand from three to five weeks, then potted and protected until there is sufficient root growth to be planted in the fields.

Mr. Maytrott inaugurated his enterprise in a small way with two varieties, shipping to New York produce merchants. Today some three hundred and fifty varieties, including the finest procurable in this country and Europe, are grown on the seventeen acres, and the flowers are shipped daily in season, the plant supplying the very best trade in Pittsburgh and Philadelphia.

The spectacle at the Maytrott Nurseries in season is one of the sights of Vineland, acre after acre of gorgeous bloom making a scene of rare beauty, and the Nurseries are the objective of many Vinelanders and their visitors, the management always extending a hearty welcome.
